Last Americans depart

U.S. involvement in Vietnam over

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopters landed on Saigon rooftops and at Tan Son Nhut air base today and began evacuating all but a few of the remaining 800 to 900 Americans who fought off South Vietnamese desperately trying to flee before Communist-led forces take over.

U.S. Marines and armed civilians used pistol and rifle butts to smash the fingers of Vietnamese trying to claw their way over the 10-foot wall at the American Embassy as helicopters lifted off the roof. At the airport, angry Vietnamese guards fired at busloads of evacuees and shouted, "We want to go, too."

Some tried to jump over the wall at the embassy and landed on the barbed wire. A man and woman lay on the wire, bleeding. People held up their children, asking Americans to take them over the fence.

At the same time, South Vietnamese air force men began a mass flight from their homeland. The Thai Foreign Ministry said 75 planes carried about 2,000 Vietnamese to Utapao air base in southern Thailand.

Civilian officials of the South Vietnamese government were also reported fleeing as rumors spread that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese would soon march into the city.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said in Washington about 4,000 Americans and South Vietnamese were evacuated within the first three hours after the U.S. airlift began. The Pentagon declined to say how many Marines were involved in the operation.

U.S. fighter-bombers flew air cover high over the city for the evacuation. Officials said the U.S. Embassy would soon close, ending 30 years of official American involvement in the Indochina War.

As the Americans pulled out, South Vietnamese police and soldiers looted buildings they had occupied. They carried out refrigerators, furniture, air conditioners and other household goods.

Besides the South Vietnamese planes which flew to Thailand, a DC6B that had been used by high-ranking South Vietnamese officials landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines with 130 persons aboard, including air force men and a handful of women and children.

While most Americans were pulling out, a few remained behind. Among them were a handful of newsmen and missionaries.

"We have talked about this for years," said Max Ediser, 28, of Turpin, Okla., who works with the Mennonite Central Committee. "We could never come up with a definite answer. Now we realize that having talked of love to our Vietnamese people, and told them not to yield to fear or ignorance, we cannot leave them in this hour of need. So we are staying."

The Thai government said it had advised the U.S. Embassy that "all planes belonging to the Cambodian and South Vietnamese governments flown to Thailand must be turned over to the Thai authorities, and we expect to return them to the next Cambodian and South Vietnamese governments."

Coffee Break ..

WASHINGTON C. H. police officers did some babysitting Tuesday morning for two children who had wandered away from home.

The boy and girl, ages three and four, were dropped off at the police department by a woman who saw the children wandering down the middle of the street in the vicinity where the Baltimore and Ohio, and Dayton, Toledo and Ironton railroad tracks intersect Dayton Avenue.

The children sat quietly in police headquarters, eating a doughnut they had been given, while an effort was made to locate their parents. Police Specialist Dennis Brown, suspecting the brother and sister who gave their names as Amy and Ray, were from the Water Street area offered them a ride in the cruiser.

He soon noticed a perplexed mother in the area, calling for them and the children were returned.

Girl improves own invention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Becky J. Schroeder, a 13-year-old Toledo, Ohio, girl who devised a way to see what she was writing in the dark, has improved on her own invention.

The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office's Official Gazette formally noted April 22 that Miss Schroeder had been granted patent No. 3,879,611.

It said the patent was for a "luminescent backing sheet for writing in the dark." An overlay sheet was being added to permit drawings and designs.

Such a device might make it easier for hospital doctors and nurses to fill in forms at night, for example.

Becky told about her original invention this February while attending the third annual "Inventors Day" in Washington sponsored by the Patent and Trademark Office.

and over 30 scholarships for a total of approximately $33,000 have been awarded since the breakfast began in 1950.

Other collections received through the association have been used to purchase new equipment, including a skeleton for the hospital's school of practical nursing, anesthetic and surgical equipment, film projector and screen for the hospital's in-service training program and other supplies.

Many local businesses donate materials for the breakfasts but the meat and all remaining items must be purchased by the 90 active members of the nurses association. Contributions for the breakfast are $1.75 per person and may be made at the door Thursday morning.

ONLY MUD: THIS TIME — Fire Chief Joe Denen was irritated by the fact that the students who participated in Thursday's mock disaster spent nearly an hour lying in the mud awaiting transfer to the hospital. He was concerned that they might become ill from the disaster drill exercise. David Morrow, local funeral home operator, was even more concerned with the outcome had the disaster been real. "Because of hospital orders, we stood around waiting for a doctor who never arrived," he said. "We could have, and should have, had half the victims to the hospital before the hospital team came to the scene," he warned.

Emergency ambulances services eyed

Mock disaster examined

BY MARK THELLMANN

What would happen if there was an actual disaster in Washington C. H. or Fayette County and there was no ambulance service provided by the three area funeral homes?

This was the most serious point brought up by local funeral director Dave Morrow during Monday afternoon's meeting in the Fayette Memorial Hospital conference room, conducted by hospital administrator Robert L. Kunz, in an effort to iron out the bugs discovered in last Thursday afternoon's mock disaster at Redman Industries, Inc.

During the mock disaster, which was allegedly caused by a vat of flammable chemicals igniting and exploding, over 20 students from Washington Senior High School participated by wearing makeup portraying some injury which might actually result from an industrial explosion.

Morrow went on to say if the three area funeral homes were all involved with funerals and something like Thursday's disaster would take place, everybody would be out of luck.

He feels the only way to guard against a problem such as this from ever arising, is to implement a county emergency ambulance rescue unit.

According to Morrow, this question will have to be examined closely in the near future because the funeral home he is affiliated with (Morrow-Huffman) is considering going out of the "emergency ambulance" aspect of the business and if this happens, the others may follow.

Kunz agreed funeral homes handling all emergency ambulance runs is an anachronism in today's age.

"When I first came to Fayette County as administrator of Fayette Memorial Hospital, I was surprised to hear the funeral homes still handled all the emergency ambulance work. All the surrounding counties have county operated rescue units," Kunz commented.

Other problems voiced during the meeting involved the "triage" team, whose purpose was to separate the badly injured, needing immediate medical attention, from those victims who could wait their turn and not be in any danger.

The triage group did not arrive on the scene because it was unclear who was appointed to the group.

Dr. Byers W. Shaw proposed all physicians have a named substitute or "stand-in" in case a disaster occurred and the doctor appointed to the triage group or some other important disaster duty, could not be reached.

It was also established the highest law enforcement official reaching the scene first, be the one to take charge of the area. Thursday afternoon, Washington C. H. Police Specialist Larry Hott performed this function.

Specialist Hott mentioned his investigation was hindered by the victims he talked to because they wouldn't tell him what had happened.

"I was in the process of calling in the Bureau of Criminal Investigation to assist in my investigation after two boys informed me Redman was fire-bombed by a passing motorist, when I discovered this was a lie. I almost had the two boys arrested for providing a police officer with false information!" Hott exclaimed.

Kunz stated it was necessary that information concerning the name of victim, tentative diagnosis and present condition, be provided his office for news release.

"The victims were tagged with this information, except for tentative diagnosis, (which will be implemented next time) and copies of the tags should have been made by someone for

Local grocers lease Greenfield store

Clarks to expand food operation

After operating the Clark's Cardinal food store in Washington C. H. for two years, Darel and Marcia Clark have decided to expand their operation to Greenfield.

The couple has executed a lease on the Kroger Co. building on Jefferson Street at the eastern edge of Greenfield. Although the Kroger Co. is still operating the store, it has been gradually phasing out its operation over the past several weeks and is expected to close June 1. Mr. and Mrs. Clark plan to open the store no later than Aug. 1.

Robert J. Smith, a Greenfield attorney, who owns the Tri-County Shopping Center on which the building is located, said he denied Kroger's request to rent the facility on a monthly or yearly basis. Smith said he favored the five-year contract signed by the Clarks. In addition to the five-year lease, Mr. and Mrs. Clark have another five-year option on the property, including the parking area.

Clark has been in the grocery business for some 20 years, being a former employee of the Kroger Co. He spent 14 years with the national chain working his way from a carryout boy to an instructor for dairy and produce manager trainees.

He then left Kroger's to become a partner in an IGA food store in Springfield for three years before leasing the Washington C. H. supermarket located in the Belle Aire subdivision off W. Elm Street.

Although Mrs. Clark had been a working wife throughout their 15-year marriage, she had not been involved in the food business until the move here. She and her husband have both worked full-time in the local operation.

Two assistant managers are currently employed to assist in the management of the Washington C. H. store, and one will be transferred to Greenfield as store manager. The other will become the store manager here while Mr. and Mrs. Clark divide their time between the two. Mrs. Clark said both she and her husband will remain active in the stores and have no plans to "watch from the sidelines."

Although the manager and some key personnel will provide the nucleus for the new operation, most of the employees will be hired locally, they said.

The Clarks said they have been very happy since moving to Washington C. H. and will continue to reside here. They and their two sons, ages 9 and 12, reside at 620 Damon Drive. "We were very pleased with the welcome we received in Washington C. H., and only hope we will be accepted as readily in Greenfield," Mrs. Clark added.

The Kroger Co. is terminating its Greenfield operations after more than 50 years there. The store has had five different locations since first opening in the community in the early 1920's.

Rangers continue search for second missing body

HILLSBORO — Rocky Fork State Park rangers and volunteers continued to search the lake Tuesday for the body of Ronald Kluba, 27, of near Cincinnati.

The body of his companion, Steve Wilken, 25, was found floating in a cove at the lake Sunday, more than three weeks after the two Cincinnati area men left their homes for a weekend fishing trip.

Wilken's body was identified Monday by the Hamilton County coroner's office, park rangers said.

The cove where Wilken's body was found is about half a mile from the site where the two men are believed to have launched their outboard motor boat the morning of April 5. The men had gone to the lake to test the fiberglass boat which one of them had purchased recently.

Wilken's body, clad only in undershorts, an undershirt and socks, was discovered by Claude Bauch, chief ranger at Rocky Fork State Park, during a routine tour of the lake.

The body was located about 50 feet from shore, on the surface in a spot where the water is approximately 30 feet deep.

15 area girls competing

First teen pageant slated for tonight

By SANDY FOSSON

The first Miss Teenage Washington C.H. pageant will be held tonight from 7 until 10 p.m. at Sounds Unlimited, 131 S. Fayette St., with 15 contestants competing for the 1975 crown.

Washington C.H. City Manager Dan Wolford has proclaimed today as "Miss Teenage Washington C.H. Day" in conjunction with the pageant.

Sponsored by the Washington C.H. Harmony Club and area merchants, the pageant has been organized not as a traditional beauty contest, but a pageant to seek "the total girl," according to pageant coordinator Ms. Lana Stepter.

The 15 girls, competing for the 1975 title will be judged by five out-of-town judges on the basis of talent, speaking ability, appearance and personality. All entrants were required to be 13 through 18 years of age, attend a county school and maintain a C or above scholastic average.

Originally there were 16 contestants in the contest but one girl dropped out of competition when conflicts in scheduling arose, Ms. Stepter said.

Master of ceremonies for the pageant will be Darrell LaDuff of Columbus, who will interview each contestant and present questions to each girl, prepared in advance by the judges.

Five girls will be selected as finalists from the judges' evaluations with a queen and first and second runnersup being chosen from the top five.

The fifteen contestants and the schools they represent include Brenda J. Arledge, 14, New Holland Elementary School; Patricia A. Bick, 17, Miami Trace High School; Karen S. Brennan, 18, Miami Trace High School; Valerie S. Brown, 14, Eber Junior High School; Kimberly Burr, 18, Miami Trace High School; Betty R. Caudill, 13, Washington C.H. Middle School; Michelle Deskins, 13, Eber Junior High School; Krista Foltz, 14, Eber Junior High School; Melanie Free, 13, New Holland Junior High School; Joye Gardner, 15, Washington Senior High School; Jackie Halterman, 13, Jeffersonville Elementary; Rajean M. Keiser, 17, Miami Trace High School; Glenna J. Scott, 14, Washington C.H. Middle School; Michelle Sigman, 13, New Holland Elementary; and Tonie R. Smith, 14, Miami Trace High School.

Tickets may be purchased at the door before the pageant for $1.75 per person.

Large turnout expected by nurses

May Day breakfast Thursday

The annual May Day breakfast, sponsored by the Fayette County Professional Nurses Association, will be held Thursday from 6 until 10 a.m. in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairground.

Mrs. Gretchen Witherspoon, co-chairman with Mrs. Betty Lundberg for this year's event, said she is hoping for a pleasant day and a large turnout for the breakfast.

The breakfast will consist of pancakes, sausage, scrambled eggs, ham, orange juice, toast and coffee or milk and is prepared for the public by the nurses association to collect funds for assisting local girls entering professional nursing careers and purchasing new equipment for Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Witherspoon and Mrs. Lundberg will be assisted in the orderly operations of the breakfast by members of the nurses association, student nurses from Fayette County attending area hospitals, future nurses of both Miami Trace and Washington Senior high schools and volunteers.

Over 1,835 persons attended the breakfast last year with profits hitting up to $1,700, according to Mrs. Witherspoon. Proceeds go mainly toward scholarship loans for nursing students, which are repaid to the association interest free.

Five girls are currently on scholarship loans received through the May Day breakfasts

Fitzpatrick of Dayton, officiating. Mrs. Bartley, a retired apartment manager and widow of Charles Bartley who died in 1968, died Thursday. She was preceded in death by her mother, Mrs. Ethel Thompson in 1937.

Pallbearers for burial in Jamestown Cemetery were John and Douglas Cunningham, Dale Haines, Judson Jeffrey, Paul and Edwin Thompson.

Senators open debate on deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is beginning debate on how large next year's federal deficit should be with conservatives saying it should be lower than the Budget Committee proposed and liberals contending it should be higher.

The debate on a government budget control resolution begins today.

The committee suggested a $365 spending level for the fiscal year beginning July 1 with a $67.2-billion deficit.

This compares with a $353 spending total and $60 billion deficit proposed by President Ford.

The difference results from the view of the majority on the committee that higher spending is needed than President Ford supports in order to end the recession.

The majority also contends that the President has understated by several billion dollars the deficit that his own program will bring.

The debate marks the first use by the Senate of the processes of the 1974 Budget Control Act, which was designed to give Congress much firmer control over federal spending.

The resolution as finally adopted by both the Senate and House will in effect set up a congressional budget for 1976. It will not be required that Congress follow the totals in the resolution in acting on money bills this year, but it is intended that these figures be a guide to appropriations decisions.

Pullout brings shoving, firing

TAN SON NHUT AIR BASE, Saigon (AP) — Dark rain clouds began billowing up in the southwest as hundreds of Americans were brought in bus caravans to Tan Son Nhut Airbase for evacuation from Vietnam.

Vietnamese guards fired at the first bus at the gates and one report said some Vietnamese passengers were wounded.

Hundreds of South Vietnamese soldiers carrying weapons converged on the base.

"We want to go, too!" shouted a jeepload of armed South Vietnamese rangers as one bus pulled into the airport.

Armed U.S. Marines pushed and hit Vietnamese trying to get inside the U.S. defense attache's compound where those being evacuated waited for the helicopters coming from U.S. Navy carriers offshore.

Wrecked and burned motorcycles littered the entrance to the compound. American cars were crashed into ditches, some with windows shot out. One was left with its motor running, lights on and doors open. Others with U.S. Embassy markings were parked helter-skelter on the base.

South Vietnamese guards fired into the air to halt civilian cars trying to drive into the compound.

Americans arriving with Vietnamese friends hustled them past nervous South Vietnamese checkpoint officials.

Vietnamese military officers with their families tried to squeeze past the American Marine and civilian guards but were stopped at gunpoint.

Two Viet Cong rockets whistled overhead and exploded behind the compound, sending Marines and evacuees diving for the pavement.

As word of the evacuation spread, some government officials telephoned The Associated Press office to ask if they could be evacuated.

Four buses drove around Saigon picking up American, European and Vietnamese evacuees.

When they stopped, Vietnamese families carrying small traveling bags would run up and try to push onto the buses. A few got on but many were left behind.

Two Vietnamese army colonels changed from their uniforms into civilian dress beside a bus carrying newsmen, then pushed their way aboard.

Four armed South Vietnamese paratroopers, drunk and in a sullen mood, pointed their thumbs down and said: "Americans Number 10," South Vietnamese slang meaning "no good."

Knots of curious Vietnamese stood and watched the buses roll past.

reports to my office," Kunz said.

Dr. Shaw mentioned physicians be provided with some identification to get through security at the hospital. Hospital employees were provided with rear-view mirror stickers, validating their connection with Fayette Memorial, but doctors, who are not considered employees, had to talk their way through security like Dr. Shaw was required to do.

Kunz said this situation would be remedied with more stickers for the physicians.

Kunz apologized for the victims being placed on the muddy lawn on the west side of Redman Industries, Inc.

"There was a misunderstanding here. They weren't supposed to be put there. I'm sorry some people in good clothes got all muddy," he said.

In conclusion, Kunz praised the support of the community and thanked everyone involved who participated in the mock disaster for their time and effort to make the event a success.

"Many problems were uncovered during the drill," Kunz stated and continued, "on the other hand, the efficiency of Fayette Memorial Hospital in handling a mass injury situation such as this proved itself and I am proud of its employees. The whole community profits from this annual drill and if a catastrophe ever presents itself in our area, Heaven forbid, we'll be ready!" he concluded.

Ford political plans said sabotaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several of President Ford's advisers feel someone is trying to sabotage his plans to run for the presidency in 1976 by planting false news stories, a White House spokesman says.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen made the statement Monday in response to an article in this week's edition of Newsweek which says Ford told a meeting of political intimates he would not seek election because of his wife's health and because he felt he could not spend the time and the money needed for the race.

"The President wants it known that this story in Newsweek is untrue. The President held no such meeting," Nessen said. "The President definitely plans to run for election in 1976 and he intends to announce his candidacy in the near future."

In New York, a spokesman for Newsweek said the magazine stands by its story.

Asked if the appearance of the Newsweek story indicates someone may be trying to sabotage Ford's plans, Nessen said, "Some of his advisers feel that someone is trying to sabotage his campaign."

Stock list drifts lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, weakened by concern over the interest rate outlook, drifted lower again in quiet trading today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.51 at 807.49. Losers outstripped gainers by more than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it appeared investors generally were on their guard after Monday's rise in bond market interest rates in the face of continuing heavy borrowing demand by the government, with its need to finance the federal budget deficit.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .13 to 84.05.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon reiterated his concern over the effect of prospective budget deficits on the capital markets.

He said the Treasury has so far raised only about 25 per cent of the money it will need to seek in the credit markets.

Riverboat race nears

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — With calliopes hissing, the Delta Queen was scheduled to steam into its home port at Cincinnati today to load passengers for a trip to Louisville and renewal of the 12th annual race for river supremacy.

The 49-year-old steamboat, the only paddle wheeler permitted to carry overnight customers in the nation, will be after its third straight victory Wednesday over the 10-mile course. The field will be enlarged to three steamboats this year, made up of The Queen, longtime rival Belle of Louisville and newcomer Julia Belle Swaim of Peoria, Ill.

The race is part of the festivities for the 102nd running of the Kentucky Derby.

The Queen took a 6-5 edge over the Belle of Louisville last year, with Capt. Ernest "Cap" Wagner crediting the triumph to the installation of a small propeller on the bow. The addition created a wave of protests from Belle backers, who claimed the new prop gave The Queen more mobility on turns and approaches into locks.

The Louisville sternwheeler countered by adding a bowthruster of its own this year and sharply cutting its passenger limit.

Urge nationwide gas allocation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Glenn has called for a nationwide allocation system of natural gas as the "best immediate answer" to curtailments in Ohio and other states. But a prayerful federal official disagrees.

Glenn told a House-Senate committee Monday that Ohio would be "threatened with literal industrial extinction" if last winter's natural gas curtailments continued.

"I think the time has arrived when we must consider all of our natural resources — whether it be Ohio coal or Louisiana oil or Texas natural gas — as a national resource," the Ohio Democrat said.

"Our national pattern of industry, and Ohio in particular, depend on it." "What I would like to get into before next winter is an allocation system. I think that's the best immediate answer," he testified. "Otherwise states like Ohio will continue to lose their fair share of needed natural gas supplies."

Frank Allen, chief of Natural Gas for the FPC, prefaced his remarks with a prayer for the success of the committee. "I gave my life to Jesus Christ two years ago," he told a hushed hearing room.

Allen then told the Joint Select Committee on Energy that Ohio should not expect increased federal natural gas allocations next winter.

"The only way we could guarantee (more) gas to the state of Ohio is to take it from someone else," he testified. "We do not have the authority to take gas from one pipeline and give it to another." He said curtailments in Ohio were "far less" than in some other states.

Allen said a bill, pending in the U.S. Senate to establish a nationwide system of natural gas allocations "would do nothing to get to the root cause" of fuel shortages.

"I told Senator Glenn before he left I didn't want to talk behind his back," Allen said. But, "I'm very much opposed to that (allocation bill)."

To halt the passing on of increased fuel costs to utility customers," would be catastrophic," the federal official claimed. "You'd bankrupt the utilities."

Glenn said upward fuel adjustments had cost Ohioans $500,000 million on top of regular utility rates last year. He said a 37-state survey indicated Ohio bore a "disproportionately high share of the burden" of increased fuel costs.

Glenn said a section of the Ford administration's energy bill calling for mandatory fuel adjustment pass-throughs "strikes me as indefensible."

"It could lead to higher prices, when utility-owned fuel suppliers charge themselves higher prices knowing these can be passed along to customers," he said.

The committee also got a gloomy outlook from George Fumich, acting director of fossil energy for the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Fumich, who met with Gov. James A. Rhodes in Washington earlier this month, said "the only real solution we have is to start using some other energy forms."

Presidential qualities

The impact of Watergate on American attitudes is seen again in the results of a statewide California poll which sought to find what qualities are most valued in a president. Honesty and trustworthiness won out hands down: 60 per cent of those responding named these characteristics as most desirable.

This outcome is not surprising, given the recent traumatic experience with Richard M. Nixon. What we do find surprising, and not a little disturbing, is that leadership and decisiveness were accorded such a low position in the scale of qualities valued in a president.

Only 19 per cent of those queried in the California poll gave leadership ability top importance. The quality of being decisive was far down on the list; a mere six per cent gave this primacy, and only 14 per cent thought a president should above all be intelligent and well educated.

Perhaps the popular instinct is correct; trustworthiness may be the paramount need in the person with greatest power to influence the nation's course. Yet the thought inevitably comes to mind that many an honest, trustworthy man or woman would make an extraordinarily poor chief executive.

What strikes us is the possibly naive thought that honesty ought to be a characteristic all but taken for granted in a president — a quality underlying the presidential character, whatever other qualities the occupant of the office may have. That should be the foundation, but a president must be much more than simply an honest, trustworthy fellow. It remains true that "where there is no vision, the people perish." More than anything, a president needs vision and the capacity to provide decisive leadership in transforming vision into reality.

Flood insurance deadline nears

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With the deadline for application only two months away, only about 23 per cent of Ohio's flood-prone municipalities have applied for federal flood insurance eligibility.

The Ohio Insurance Institute has issued a warning to 437 Ohio communities that they must apply by July 1 to qualify under the Federal Disaster Act of 1973.

Without eligibility, property owners cannot obtain flood insurance, which is not included in standard property insurance coverage.

And without the insurance, property owners will find it difficult to get financing for construction. Loans from the government or from private institutions regulated by the federal government cannot be issued without flood coverage.

A spokesman for the institute said some communities have hesitated to apply because it gives some federal control over land-use zoning in flood hazard areas.

Special zoning restrictions in the flood areas also conflict with state law in some areas dealing with uniform zoning of unincorporated land. A bill now in the General Assembly, sponsored by Rep. Frederick H. Deering, D-84 Monroeville, would change those laws to allow flood zoning.

"We are aware of the problems involved and reasons that some areas have not made applications," said John C. Winchell, executive director of the institute. "But application by hazard areas is required by the Federal Disaster Act."

"Careful consideration now will allow individual problems to be resolved and the program instituted in an orderly fashion before the cut-off date. This will also insure that some form of flood relief is available in these known hazard areas," he said.

The institute said that once eligibility is granted, property owners can decide for themselves if they want flood insurance.

"But the eligibility must come first," the institute said. "Thus, it is particularly important that areas with known hazards apply for the program so that its citizens will have access to protection."

The institute said 133 municipalities have applied for eligibility.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She barks at doggie-bag dinner guests

DEAR ABBY: I got a kick out of the woman who took an extra large second helping and then asked for a "doggie bag" to take her leftovers home with her.

It reminded me of the time I prepared a sumptuous spread for three couples. (I love to cook.) One woman phoned just a few minutes before the time she should have arrived to ask if she and her husband could bring a friend and to inform me that they would be a "little late."

The three of them arrived an hour and 15 minutes later half gassed. Well, this late broad said she wasn't hungry, but everything looked so good she wondered if I'd give her a doggie bag.

I said, "I have my OWN doggie, and I am it. Therefore, I do not provide my guest with doggie bags. Also, people who have the bad manners to show up an hour and 15 minutes late don't deserve any consideration, and this is the last time you'll be invited here!"

The other guests were somewhat uptight about the confrontation, but the only way to treat people with guts is to out-gut them.

GUTSIE IN OXNARD

DEAR GUTSIE: Your bark is as bad as your bite. But you can give lessons on how to end an undesirable friendship.

DEAR ABBY: I have often wanted to write to you, but never had reason until now. My problem is my mother. She wants surgery done on her "grapes" to have them enlarged to about grapefruit size.

My father keeps saying no-he likes her dried raisins the way they are. Mom disagrees and is willing to give up a vacation in order to have the surgery done.

It all started as a joke, but it turns out that Mom is dead serious. She's even underlined the plastic surgeon's name in the phone book. She says she wants something BIG for her 40th birthday.

How do you feel about the situation? GRAPENUTS

DEAR GRAPENUTS: If this would be good for your mother's morale-why not? I only hope that she and your father can agree on a fruit that's not forbidden.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we went out to dinner with two other couples. When the check came one of the men insisted on paying for everything with his credit card (obviously his company's). Then he collected the cash from the rest of us.

I have been told that he does this all the time. How does a person go about putting a stop to this sort of thing? I don't like to be used as a "customer." And knowing that he uses us as so-called business write-offs when we are just social friends makes me feel like a party to something dishonest.

USED IN CHICAGO

DEAR USED: If you are certain that your friend is using you in this manner, either tell him you won't go along with it or quit going along with HIM.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "10-YEARS OLD IN MADISON, WISC.": If I could give you and your classmates just one bit of advice that would make you "smarter," it would be: "Read, read read and read some more. The person who doesn't read has no advantage over the person who can't read."

Letters from readers of R-H

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
Isn't it about time to stop worrying about how long a guy chooses to have his hair?

Instead, why not put the energy and effort of arguing about hair to use and for once do something for the youth of Fayette County?

Parents, if you are really concerned about the welfare of your children why won't you pass the Miami Trace levies and give your kids an education that is at least comparable to other counties with similar per capita income? It's a miracle the school system has survived as well as it has concerning the type of support it receives from the voters.

Are you tired of hearing the names of your friend's children in connection with delinquency, or maybe even the name of your own child? Then why not create something for young people to do? The local skating rink is off limits to 18-year-olds and over, some don't skate anyway; the waiting list at the bowling alley is about an hour long or more; a lot cannot afford the local discotheque, and it is too far to drive for most young people to go to a surrounding city for something to do.

So what do most young people do on weekends in Washington C.H.? Not much. Just ride back and forth through town watching other people do the same thing. Sound exciting?

Some even get a little beer and start acting goofy. Not long afterwards a few get into trouble. Vandalism. Speeding. Reckless operation. Drag racing. DWI. Wrecks. Fights, and the list goes on and on.

Whatever happened to the YMCA that was being "talked" about a few years ago?

Why can't a youth center be opened? It would give young people a place to go to talk, listen, read and just plain be at instead of being a landing strip for plane loads of trouble.

All of these things sound like a lot of money? What price would you put upon your child's welfare, education, peace of mind and general well-being?

There is no price. Only you can give the young people of this county a way to keep themselves out of trouble. The only thing is, the only chance you'll ever have is now. Not next fall; not next year. Now while your child is still here.

Instead of worrying about your son's hair, how about thinking ahead to his future. Long hair won't be in style forever, do you still wear knickers?

Now is the time to stop worrying about "long-haired hippies" and start worrying about how prepared is that young man to face and try to solve the mess this world is in.

Let's get off each other's backs fighting over hair and join hands to make tomorrow a better world.

I'm only 20 years old, but even now I can see a rough road ahead for my generation; if we (the world) survives long enough for us to be in your places as business people and head of families.

Instead of shaking your heads at the world situation, shake a leg and do something to try to improve things.

The first biggest, most important step would be to walk into a church this Sunday and worship God and ask for His guidance and direction. "One nation under God . . ."

Let's join together as one under God and we can accomplish everything through Him.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
On April 19, we were privileged to be present at the presentation of "Music Man" at Miami Trace High School.

This was a very excellent production and the teachers, adults and high school students who participated in this joint effort are to be commended on doing such an outstanding job. The spirit of cooperation was evident in the end result — a play of top quality and very fine entertainment.

We were especially proud of our beloved niece and nephew, Brenda and Doug Joseph.

Fayette County has much to be proud of in their outstanding youth.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
We would like to attest to the character of Thomas McClung.

We have known him all his life and find him to be a fine young man with morals above reproach. Personally, we don't think that long hair has anything to do with character.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)
Curb an inclination to act or make decisions too quickly. In holding discussions, don't try to force issues or you could overshoot a safe mark.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)
Great activity indicated in your area — which should prove highly stimulating. Especially favored: creative interests, community projects, travel plans.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)
Personal relationships should be highly congenial now. In fact, some of your brighter and more amusing companions could give you some stimulating ideas.

CANCER

((June 22 to July 23)
Place your confidence in hard facts rather than "feeling" and, in discussions with others, don't be overly imaginative. You could read too much in their words.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Though many means for advancement exist, you COULD throw a wrench into the machinery if your attitudes are suspicious, your approaches tactless. Beware!

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Planetary restrictions lift now so you will find achievement considerably easier. Not only should routine matters go well, but you may even have an opportunity to cash in on an avocational skill.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
The discerning Libran should find this period entertaining and instructive. Be ready for new beginnings, sharpened incentive.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Once sure that your ideas have good potentialities, lose no time in trying to bring them to realization. Good Mars influences should help you.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Conjuring up imaginary obstacles may be day's drawback. This could result in mental blocks. Look on the bright facets; stress optimism.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Be flexible enough in thought to take in a brand new idea — and make it work! Resist doubting and tendencies toward hypercriticism.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
A good day for long-range thinking and plans. Review carefully before launching unfamiliar ventures, but do not hesitate to try for a new achievement.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March. 20)
Follow your instincts now. Your native intuition should be at a peak and disclose heartening new vistas which will open to you shortly.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great dignity, a remarkable memory and unusual powers of intuition. You are sensitive and imaginative; have a dry and subtle sense of humor. If you take up writing or painting — as many Taureans do — these latter traits will probably dominate your work. You can converse on a wide range of subjects and this fact, coupled with your warmth and understanding, combine to make you a delightful companion. On the negative side: You can be extremely stubborn at times; also, dogmatic in expressing opinions. Curb! Many artists, teachers, surgeons and entertainers have been Taurus-born.

New concession stand

Armco workers tackle three projects for Founder's Day

Rossmann Field has a new concession stand, Jeffersonville Boy Scout Troop No. 67 has a storage shed for its paper drives, and DEAF, Inc. has $400 to add to its treasury.

They are gifts of the employees at the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington as part of their annual observance of Founder's Day.

The $400 contribution to DEAF, Inc., will be used by the organization for the purchase of emergency communications equipment.

DEAF, Inc. was formed to provide assistance to deaf persons in Fayette County. The organization encourages residents of Fayette County to learn sign language in an attempt to bridge the communications gap from deaf persons.

In addition to the voluntary contributions of money, employees erected the new concession and storage building which were made of Armco steel panels and frames produced at the plant here.

The concession, which measures 12 by 16 feet, replaces an old building at Rossmann Field which was demolished recently by the Washington C. H. Lions Club, which is responsible for the Babe Ruth League baseball program here. The storage building will be used by Jeffersonville Boy Scout Troop No. 67 to store paper collected in paper drives.

In the past, Armco Steel Corp. employees have engaged in numerous civic projects in commemoration of Founder's Day. Last year, employees donated $2,600 to the needy residents of tornado-ravaged Xenia. The $2,600 contribution was a record amount for the Founder's Day projects, which were first launched 23 years ago.

Founder's Day is an annual event at various Armco Steel Corp. plants throughout the world. The day honors the late George M. Verity, founder of Armco Steel. Mr. Verity spent his life contributing much to humanity.

Donald (Seffy) Robinson was chairman of the Founder's Day committee here. Other members were Cecil Cutlip, Barbara Smith, John Shaffer, Irene Marvin, Bob Yarger, Jack Shoemaker and David Boswell.

PRESENTATION — Founder's Day chairman Donald Robinson presents a $400 donation to Janet Duvall, president of DEAF, Inc., for the purchase of emergency communication equipment. Quintuplets are given their names

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Levy quintuplets, their chances of survival improving almost daily, are one week old today and have received names.

Doctors said the five infants have "an excellent chance of survival."

Mark and Pamela Levy told General Hospital officials they have named the three girls Randi Jill, Michelle Amy, Allison Stacey, and the boys Neal

Richard and David Eric.

Mrs. Levy, making slow progress after her caesarean section, was allowed to watch television Monday night for the first time since the multiple birth.

Pediatricians said it would be at least two weeks before any of the infants would be strong enough to leave the hospital. That means they'll miss "Levy Week," which is being celebrated in their hometown of Fairfield.

Four of the five infants remain in incubators. The firstborn and heaviest of the quint—Randi Jill—was removed from her incubator Friday and placed in a crib. Another girl is soon to leave her incubator, according to doctors. All the infants are being bottle fed.

Residents ignore health findings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A report indicating that three northern Ohio communities with polyvinyl chloride plants have excessive birth defect rates created scarcely a stir among their residents.

"It hasn't raised any clamor," said Dr. Frank Veroni, Ashtabula health commissioner.

"I don't know of anyone who has commented about it publicly other than the mayor," said Avon Lake's pollution officer, Daniel Straka.

Painesville Health Commissioner Wayne Ruuska said there was "no reaction from residents here."

Ashtabula, Avon Lake and Painesville, all near Lake Erie, were the focus of a study by Dr. Peter F. Infante of the Ohio Department of Health.

Infante's findings, presented last month at a conference on occupational carcinogenesis held by the New York Academy of Sciences, showed that birth defect rates in the communities ranged as high as twice the state norm.

The report listed Ashtabula with 17 birth defects per 1,000 live births, Painesville with 18 per 1,000 and Avon Lake with just over 20 per 1,000.

The state average was listed as 10.14 malformations per 1,000 live births.

B.F. Goodrich, whose Avon Lake facility opened in 1946, issued a statement pointing to the "numerous shortcomings" of the study.

The company said Infante based his conclusions solely on information from birth certificates.

Moreover, Goodrich said, Infante had not determined whether any women involved had ever been exposed to vinyl chloride — the gas used in making polyvinyl chloride — or whether there was any vinyl chloride in the ambient air in the communities.

"We've looked into this and we haven't found anything to bear out Infante's report," said Cleveland Lane, manager for divisional services and corporate communications at the Goodrich plant.

Lane said that in 1973 three workers at Goodrich's polyvinyl chloride plant in Louisville, Ky. — one of five the company operates — were found to have died from a rare form of liver cancer.

He said the deaths were reported to federal and state officials and "since then new standards for exposure have been instituted."

But there is no scientific evidence upholding a link between vinyl chloride and birth defects, Lane said.

Infante agrees. Although he purposely chose communities with polyvinyl chloride plants for his study, he said, he can't validly draw any conclusions between that and his findings.

"The thing is there is an excess of birth defects in those areas," he said. "But whether it's related to the polyvinyl chloride factories or not, I can't say."

He said he would continue his investigation, starting with a study of population data such as where the parents of children with birth defects lived and worked.

Fire protection funds allocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has allocated $101,900 to Ohio for a year for fire protection in rural communities.

The state funding is part of $3.5 million available nationally for fiscal 1975, which ends June 30.

Rural areas and towns under 10,000 population which do not now have adequate fire protection can take advantage of the cost sharing program by applying before June 30. Communities will be selected based on vulnerability to fire, adequacy of existing protection and other factors.

Couple sets wedding date

MISS BRENDA J. STOCKWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Marion F. Stockwell, 3593 Miami Trace Rd., have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Brenda Joyce, to Pete Pierce, son of Mr. Melvin Pierce of Sedalia, and Mrs. Katie Downs, Locust Rd.

Miss Stockwell, a 1973 Miami Trace High School graduate, and 1974 Bliss College, is presently employed as secretary at the Washington C.H. Wastewater Plant.

Her fiancé is a 1973 MTHS graduate and self-employed as an excavator.

The wedding will be an event of May 31 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church.

Y-Gradale represented at Conference

Members of Y-Gradale Sorority traveled to Columbus to attend the annual Spring Conference held at the Lincoln Lodge on Sunday. Hostess chapter for the event was Canton Alpha.

A social hour was held to acquaint the sister chapters, followed by a luncheon.

John Nethers, Professor of Ohio History at Ashland College, showed slides and told of historic places in Ohio. He stated that Ohio was responsible for providing the United States with eight presidents.

Lucille Cowman, region president, opened the business meeting, and reports were made. Nominations for state officers were also made.

Fall Conference will be held at Greentree Inn in Sandusky Sept. 27 and 28.

Mrs. Scott guest of honor

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Frazier entertained at a family get-together Sunday in honor of Mrs. Frazier's mother's birthday, Mrs. Edith Scott.

Others present besides the guest of honor and the Frazier family were Mr. and Mrs. John Scott and son, Jeff, Mrs. Pat Scott and son, Greg, Harold Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Joey Noble and Tonda and Dennis, David Coll, and Steven and Brenda Kay Frazier.

Beta Sigma Phi Week is proclaimed

A Founder's Day celebration will be held Tuesday evening in the Terrace Lounge to mark Beta Sigma Phi Week and the 44th anniversary of the non-academic organization.

Three chapters of the organization in Washington C.H.: Zeta Epsilon, Xi Iota Theta and Phi Theta Gamma will be participating in observing the founding of the social, cultural and service organization for women in conjunction with "International Women's Year."

This week has been proclaimed Beta Sigma Phi Week in Washington C. H. and Mrs. Fred Pitzer will serve as chairman of the local celebration. Mrs.

Russell Liston has been selected to present a special message from the sorority's president from the world headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Pitzer will be assisted during the Tuesday program under the national theme of "Let Heritage Ring," by toastmistress, Mrs. Jim Coldiron, Mrs. Chris Campbell, Mrs. Debbie Hyer, Mrs. Roger Pemberton, Mrs. Don Greenwood, Mrs. Steve Lewis, Mrs. Jeff Pollard, Mrs. Liston and Mrs. Don Jones.

Awards and recognition will be made to all outstanding members of the local chapters.

Creme and crunch parfaits are welcome

PARFAITS — Knox Unflavored Gelatine, milk and marshmallow creme, prepared in an electric blender, make an airy layer to alternate with chocolate wafer crumbs and chopped walnuts. From start to serving, the dessert is ready in less than an hour.

Here is a creamy-light dessert that's as welcome as an airy spring breeze! Parfait is the French word for perfect, and it rolls off the tongue as easily as a spoonful of this gelatine-marshmallow creme confection.

The gel mixture is whipped up in an electric blender in a matter of minutes. With the blend 'n' gel method, the only cooking involved is that required to heat the milk to boiling to dissolve the softened gelatine: all the rest of the work is done by the blender. Knox Unflavored Gelatine is sprinkled over cold milk in the blender container and then hot milk is added to completely dissolve the gelatine granules.

As with any dish made with Knox unflavored Gelatine, it is important that the granules be thoroughly dissolved. If they cling to the sides of the container, push them down into the mixture with a rubber spatula.

When the granules have dissolved, marshmallow creme and vanilla are added, and a cup of ice cubes is processed with the mixture until the ice melts. Ice speeds the gel action and cuts down refrigerator chilling time considerably.

When it's thickened, the gelatine-marshmallow blend is layered in parfait glasses (or dessert dishes, if you prefer) with a mixture of chocolate wafer crumbs and chopped walnuts. The dessert is ready to serve in less than an hour. What could be simpler — or tastier?

CREME AND CRUNCHY PARFAITS

- 1 envelope Knox Unflavored Gelatine
 - ½ cup cold milk
 - ½ cup milk, heated to boiling
 - 1 cup marshmallow creme
 - ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1 cup ice cubes
 - ½ cup chocolate wafer crumbs
 - ½ cup finely chopped walnuts
- In 5-cup blender container, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over milk; let stand until moistened. Add hot milk and process at low speed 2 minutes. Add marshmallow creme, vanilla and ice cubes one at a time and process at high speed until ice is melted. Let stand until mixture is thickened, about 7 minutes.

In small bowl, mix crumbs and walnuts.

In parfait glasses or dessert dishes, alternately layer marshmallow mixture with crumb mixture. Chill until set, about 40 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Home Builders observe class anniversary

The Home Builders Class of the Madison Mills United Methodist Church and former class members met in the church annex at noon Sunday for a carry-in dinner in observance of the 46th anniversary of the class. Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benner. Miss Vickie Vincent gave the invocation and the 28 class mates were seated at two tables attractive with placemats and arrangements of spring flowers.

Visiting followed the meal and a program was presented in the afternoon. Mrs. Lester Haines, president, led the group in the singing of "Sweeter as the Years go By," "He Hideth My Soul," and "How Great Thou Art," with Mrs. Ethel Wilson at the piano.

Mrs. Frank Barrett presented inspiring devotions and expressed appreciation for those who organized the Home Builders Class. Her topic, was "Love of God," and the poem, "We Think of the Past" by Russell Hoy, was read. The group sang a hymn, and Mrs. Grace Allemang read the "History of the Class" and Mr. Kenneth Craig gave a brief talk and recited a clever poem. Mrs. Dwight King delighted all with a piano solo, and Mrs. Benner showed slides of pictures taken at the golden wedding observance of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hidy, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Blodwen Melvin, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight King, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mrs. Ruth H. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett, Mrs. Helen Crow, Mrs. Ruby Lightle, Mrs. Walter Harris, Mrs. Grace Allemang, Miss Vincent, Mrs. Bess Seaman, Mrs. Easter Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Benner, Mr. and Mrs. Dorn and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Haines.

A balanced low-caloric diet to lose weight is recommended rather than some diets in popular use, such as one that is restricted to protein and fat and involves drinking large amounts of water, according to the authors of a study reported in a prestigious medical journal.

MT places sixth in Ohio FFA contest

BILL MAYER
Accounting winner

Over 5,000 FFA members, parents, administrators, teachers and guests attended the 47th annual state FFA convention at the Lausche Building, Ohio State Fairgrounds, in Columbus, Friday and Saturday.

The local FFA group was represented by 66 individuals who attended the convention session focusing on the major theme of "FFA - A Chance for Growth".

Highlighting the Friday evening banquet session was the final rating given to each of the 360 chapters in the state. The ratings are based on the total chapter involvement in supervised occupational experience, cooperation in the school and community, leadership, earnings and savings, conduct of meetings, scholarship, social and recreation, public relations, national activities and alumni relations. Each of the 360 chapters in Ohio are rated and the top 20 in the state are recognized at the banquet. This rating in the FFA is similar to the final state ratings published in high school athletics. The Miami Trace FFA chapter was ranked sixth out of 260 local chapters and will advance to national competition this October in Kansas City, Mo.

Two local members also received state recognition Friday night as they received FFA proficiency awards. These state awards are made possible through contributions made to the Ohio FFA foundation. Bill Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mayer, of Bloomingburg, placed first in the state in the area of accounting. Mayer received a plaque and check for $100. Scott Jenks, son of Ernest Jenks, of Jeffersonville, placed third in the field of livestock production and also received a plaque.

The local chapter was also one of 12 from throughout Ohio who was asked to serve as official banquet host for the meal Friday evening. Serving in this capacity were Terri Hidy, Jill Cory, Lisa Cook, Wayne Blanton, Joe Garland, Rusty Coe, Tim Schaefer, Craig DeMent, Ben Stockwell, Kevin Stockwell, Mark Davis, Dave Anders and Doug Overla.

The speaker for the banquet session was Scott McKain, national FFA secretary from Crothersville, Ind. McKain holds the second highest office in the national organization out of over 475,000 FFA members. McKain emphasized the importance of active participation in any endeavor that a young person takes part in. The national officer received a standing ovation for his very inspirational remarks.

Saturday morning the results of the state FFA judging contests were announced and numerous awards were presented. Highlighting the local chapter winnings was the trophy presented to Chris Garland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garland, for placing first in the state in the area of general livestock judging. This is the third year in a row that a Miami Trace member has received this award. Scott Jenks, presently a student at Ohio State University, won this the two previous years. Garland placed first out of 699 individuals in competition. The general livestock team made up of Garland, Jim McCoy and Jeff Wilt placed sixth out of 233 teams.

Other team placings and individuals judging included state tractor trouble shooting, Don Burr and Dave Duff seventh out of 15 teams; agronomy, Kevin Stockwell, Ben Stockwell and Randy Beekman 61st out of 129; dairy cattle, Ken Moon, Bret Taylor and Bart Taylor 39th out of 222 teams; dairy products, Sam Grooms; Fred Melvin, Terry Rodgers 14th out of 78 teams; meat identification, Sue Mitchell, Terri Hidy and Jay Pendleton 49th out of 141 teams; poultry and egg judging, Joe Garland, Rusty Coe and Alan Binegar 68th out of 106 teams and wool judging, Jeff Schlichter, Chris Schlichter and Mark Smithson 18th out of 116 teams. These judging contests were held two weeks ago at the Ohio State University, but the results were just finalized.

At noon on Saturday the state FFA alumni council held its convention session. Members of the Miami Trace alumni attending included the two voting delegates, Jim Eltzroth and John Hiser.

Highlighting the Saturday evening session was the awarding of the state FFA degrees. This is the highest award that can be given to a FFA member from the state association. The criteria used for selection is based upon the member's total involvement in all FFA activities. This award can only be given to the top two per cent of Ohio FFA members. Receiving the coveted degree from Miami Trace were Bill Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mayer; Jim McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCoy; Jeff Schlichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlichter and Bret Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

Also recognized Friday evening was Scott Jenks, a Southwest Sectional FFA member of the Year. This award goes annually to the top FFA member out of a 20-county area. Jenks was also very instrumental in carrying out the entire convention sessions as he was serving as state FFA treasurer. The state officer team consisting of 11 FFA members from throughout Ohio are elected annually from the 20,488 FFA members from Ohio.

During his time in office Jenks spoke at 20 FFA banquets, visited 21 chapters, attended FFA camp seven days and traveled 8,105 miles throughout Ohio promoting the FFA.

Providing entertainment throughout the convention were FFA members who participated in the state FFA chorus and the state FFA band. This is a very high honor to be selected as they had to be given high ratings by their individual high school music instructors. Members from Miami Trace in the chorus were Sue Mitchell, Yvonne McCarty, Beth Jenks and Don Eyre. Participating in the State Band were Ken Moon and Joe Eltzroth.

Others who attended the sessions included FFA members Don Davis, Mike Sollars, Dave McFadden, Darrell Krupla, Bent Hansen, Dave Duff, Doug Miller, John Mayer, Gary Taylor, Gerald Reid and Jimette Cornell. Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Reid and daughter Janet, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlichter and children Jill and Curt, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCarty, Miss Belinda Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, Mrs. Marjorie Baughn, Ernest Jenks, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Fleisher, MTHS principal.

Serving as chaperones for the group were Mrs. James Cornell, Mr. Dave Drake, student teacher, and Charles Andrews and William Diley, local FFA advisors.

BCI chief dismissed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Akron native and former FBI agent has been named acting superintendent of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation at London.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown announced Monday the appointment of Jack McCormick, 32, after disclosing that E. Eugene Starrett, 43, had been fired as superintendent Friday.

Brown asked the Ohio Highway Patrol to look into "allegations of improprieties" against Starrett, who had headed the bureau since March, 1973.

A spokesman in the attorney general's office said state property was involved, but probably less than $1,000 worth. Starrett earned $23,754 a year at the Madison County facility.

McCormick has been assistant superintendent since July, 1973, at a salary of $19,900 records showed.

Commission agrees to let bids again

In a very light afternoon session Monday, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners received no bids for a new vehicle for the Fayette County dog warden and voted to readvertise for bids.

New bids are to be received in the county commissioner's office on the ground floor of the Fayette County Courthouse by 11:45 a.m. May 12.

Columbus man found innocent in Municipal Court hearing

Acting Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson found a Columbus man innocent Monday on a charge of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

David T. Richardson, 21, and Nickie Johnson, 20, also of Columbus, were arrested by Fayette County Sheriff Deputy Charles W. Wise April 9 in connection with a report of a stolen auto. Johnson was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a valid operator's license, while Richardson was charged with permitting an unlicensed driver to operate the vehicle.

Johnson appeared in Municipal Court last week and pleaded guilty before Judge Reed M. Winegardner on the charge of driving without a valid Ohio operator's license and was fined $100.

He appeared as a witness for Richardson Monday and stated although he did not have an Ohio license, he did have a valid West Virginia driver's license. However, Johnson could not present proof of having a West Virginia license in his possession.

Judge Simpson found Richardson innocent of permitting an unlicensed operator to drive a motor vehicle after Richardson's attorney, Ralph V. Thomen of Columbus, pointed out that the statute under the charge stated the driver did not necessarily have to have an Ohio driver's license but merely a valid operator's license.

Richardson is to appear later this month in Fayette County Common Pleas Court on an additional charge of auto theft.

BICYCLE WEEK — Fayette County Board of Commissioners chairman Ray Warner is assisted by little Guy Thompson in proclaiming this week "Bicycle Week" throughout Fayette County, in conjunction with Epsilon Sigma Alpha's "Million Dollar Bike Ride" this weekend. Standing at rear are Hank Shaffer, director of the Community Education program, which is sponsoring bicycle safety checks at all city schools, Mrs. Jeannie Anderson of the Fayette County 4-H office, conducting safety checks at the county schools and Mrs. Arlene Thompson, general chairman of the benefit bike ride.

Judge suspends jail terms in criminal mischief cases

Two area men were fined and received suspended jail sentences in Washington C. H. Municipal Court Monday by acting Judge Robert L. Simpson on charges of criminal mischief.

The two, Randall Anschutz, 21, Bloomingburg, and Richard Seaman, 20, Bowersville, had been arrested by Washington C. H. police officers following an investigation into the destruction of several decorative trees in front of the Terrace Lounge, 134 S. Main St., Sunday.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charges and were fined $100 each and given suspended 10-day jail terms provided restitution is made for the damages.

Morris Clark, 19, of 1119½ Willard St., was fined $100 and sentenced to 10 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault, filed on a private warrant.

Pamela Ferguson, 20, Mount Sterling, was fined $100 when she pleaded guilty to passing a bad check for $22.75 at Buckeye Mart, March 6. A 10-day jail sentence was suspended pending two year's good behavior and provided restitution is made for the check.

In one other non-traffic case, Mark E. Pettiford, 22, of 112 W. Paint St., pleaded guilty before Judge Simpson to a charge of disorderly conduct and received a $50 fine.

State obligated to pay cost of abortions, Ferguson says

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Auditor Thomas Ferguson says the state "is obligated to continue to pay" for elective abortions for women on welfare despite an upper court victory Monday.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a lower court's decision which had ordered former auditor Joseph Ferguson to pay for elective abortions.

The issue arose last fall when the elder Ferguson challenged the law. Federal District Judge Robert M. Duncan of Columbus ordered the state to subsidize abortions for women on welfare.

The suit was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), which represented several pregnant welfare recipients. The ACLU said Ohio's antissubsidy law violated Medicaid provisions of the Federal Social Security Act.

Ferguson said the state hopes to win a restraining order in federal district court until the case can be cleared up.

The three-judge panel said "there is no indication that Congress intended to require the furnishing of abortion services not required for the preservation of the health of a woman at a time when the performance of such abortions was illegal in most jurisdictions."

The decision added "In view of the disfavor shown toward abortions in other legislation, we are reluctant to infer that Congress intended to include required coverage for such controversial services without mentioning the subject."

The case was ordered returned to U.S. District Court of Southern Ohio, along with an overturned decision which threw out an Ohio statute banning such payments.

The appellate court ordered a three-judge panel convened to try the case on Constitutional merits.

The appeals court noted that the Supreme Court had ruled on the right to have an abortion but did not rule on use of public money to pay for them.

The decision said the issue remains arguable, but said said the lower court avoided constitutional questions.

Bike safety checks set through Friday

The Washington C. H. Area Community Education program and the Fayette County 4-H office are jointly sponsoring bicycle safety checks this week around the county in conjunction with the proclaimed, "Bicycle Week."

The annual safety checks will be held today through Friday at area schools while the "Million Dollar Bike Ride" will begin Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Huntington Drive-in Bank parking lot, across from Washington C. H. police headquarters.

The bike ride is being sponsored locally by the Alpha Theta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha in Washington C. H. The sorority has set a goal of $5,000 as its part of a national effort to give $1 million to St. Jude's Hospital in Tennessee, the largest childhood cancer research center in the world.

Fayette County Board of Commissioners chairman Ray Warner stated, in signing a proclamation designating the week of April 28-May 3 as Bicycle Week, he "very heartily supported" the ride because his grandson was born with Highland membrane disease three years ago and without treatment being provided through this project the child may not have survived.

The bicycle safety checks will be conducted with the cooperation of the Washington C. H. Police Department and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. A schedule of checks will be: Tuesday, 2-3 p.m., Eastside Elementary School; Wednesday, 2-3 p.m., Cherry Hill Elementary School; Thursday, 1:30-2:30 p.m., New Holland Elementary School, 3-4 p.m., Madison Mills Elementary School and 2-3 p.m., Belle-Aire Elementary School; and Friday, 2-3 p.m., Rose Avenue Elementary School, 1-2 p.m., Jeffersonville Elementary School and 2:30 - 3:30 p.m., Bloomingburg Elementary School.

Hank Shaffer, director of the Community Education program, will head the bicycle safety checks at the city schools while Mrs. Jeannie Anderson of the county 4-H office is directing safety checks for the county schools.

Firemen douse blaze at home

Children playing with matches is believed by Washington C. H. firemen to have been the probable cause behind a house fire at the Virginia Butcher residence at 9:59 a.m. Tuesday.

Fire Lt. Richard Reed reported firemen were dispatched to the 605 Fourth St. address, where they found two plastic bags of straw burning underneath the house.

They extinguished the fire with water and during their investigation, discovered matches and a cigarette butt in the straw.

Damage was estimated at $250 to the home and $150 to the contents within, which were ruined by smoke.

No one was home at the time of the blaze and the door had to be broken down for firemen to gain entry. The house is owned by William Caldwell.

Hocking County man leaves honor farm

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — William E. Guss, 44, an inmate at Chillicothe Correctional Institute, walked away from the prison's beef farm where he was working Monday, the corrections department said.

Guss was sentenced to the institute from Hocking County for 1-5 years for receiving stolen property. He arrived at the prison in May 1974.

President Martin Van Buren, small in stature but dexterous in his political maneuvers in New York and on the national scene, was nicknamed "The Little Magician."

Local volunteer due honors at Hospital Day ceremonies

CHILLICOTHE — Dr. Robert E. Holland, director of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Chillicothe, announced today that a Washington C.H. woman will be honored at the honor awards ceremony at the hospital's annual open house at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Holland said Mrs. Howard Osborne, 511 E. Temple St., will be awarded the Veterans Administration silver emblem in recognition of her contribution of 2,500 volunteer hours.

Mrs. Osborne, serving under the auspices of the American Red Cross, began her volunteer work in 1956. Her assignments have been in nursing service and sports therapy and, more recently, in the community placement program. Dr. Holland pointed out that 2,500 hours is equivalent to over one full year of regular employment.

Also to be honored at the Hospital Day awards ceremony is Mrs. Margaret Cokonougher, 2902 Armbrust Road. Serving as a receptionist-hostess since joining the volunteer program in 1972, she has accumulated 500 hours. Mrs. Cokonougher is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4964 auxiliary.

Richard L. Roudebush, directors of the U.S. Veterans Administration, will be the featured speaker and present the awards, according to Dr. Holland.

Prayer breakfast draws 47 persons

The Rev. Charles J. Richmond chose the topic, "The Abundant Life," in speaking to the 47 persons attending the weekly teen prayer breakfast Tuesday at the South Side Church of Christ, 921 S. Fayette St.

Gretchen Owen and Mary Ann Rudduck, accompanied by Cindy Van Meter, all seniors at Washington Senior High School, led the group in singing.

A group of WSHS seniors composed of Misses Owen, Debbie Wonderleigh, Rudduck and Van Meter, sang and were accompanied on the guitar by Lynn Sagar. The group sang, "I See the World Around Me," and Miss Wonderleigh offered prayer for the food.

After breakfast, Donnie Matthews, a maintenance employee at Miami Trace High School, spoke to the group on "Attitudes."

The next breakfast will be held at 6:45 a.m. May 6.

Peter Stuyvesant was a Colonial governor who had only one leg.

K.C. Royals whip Wood, White Sox

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Wilbur Wood wasn't quite on the ball ... which is why Harmon Killebrew got wood on the ball.

"I've been pitching like I always do. I didn't throw the ball too well tonight but most of this season I've been throwing it real well," Wood said after suffering his fifth loss of the young season — thanks in part to Killebrew's fourth home run of the year.

It was a booming shot over the left field fence on Wood's first pitch in the sixth inning. It broke a tie and helped propel the Kansas City Royals to a 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In Monday night's other American League games, Detroit beat Baltimore 5-3 and New York defeated Cleveland 6-1. In the National League, Los Angeles topped Atlanta 4-3 and Houston downed San Diego 4-1.

Killebrew was philosophical. "I've got Wood a few times and Wood's got me a few times," he said. "He had some good knuckleballs out there tonight and some not so good. He got that knuckleball up and I hit it out of here."

The homer broke a 3-3 deadlock and, in the seventh, Kansas City scored what proved to be the winning run. Fred Patek singled, Amos Otis walked, Terry Forster replaced Wood and walked John Mayberry and Hal McRae tripled to widen the Royals' lead to 7-3. Jorge Orta hit a two-run homer for Chicago in the ninth.

Tigers 5, Orioles 3
Gary Sutherland slashed a two-run single off reliever Dave Johnson in a three-run ninth to keep Detroit atop the American League East.

The single off diving third baseman Brooks Robinson's glove came moments after Mike Cuellar had forced in the tying run by walking Aurelio Rodriguez.

Yankees 6, Indians 1
Rudy May, a midseason acquisition from the California Angels last year, holds the distinction of being New York's ace left-hander. He proved it again with a four-hitter against Cleveland while the Yanks bombed former teammate Fritz Peterson for four runs in the first inning.

Roy White, Elliott Maddox and Thurman Munson singled for one run, Alex Johnson tripled for two more and Graig Nettles' sacrifice fly finished the outburst.

Dodgers 4, Braves 3
Los Angeles, virtually handcuffed by Atlanta's Phil Niekro through seven innings, gleefully pounced on reliever Tom House for three runs in the eighth after Niekro's arm stiffened.

House walked Dave Lopes and Jimmy Wynn, Steve Garvey doubled for one run and pinch-hitter Manny Mota ripped a two-run single off the glove of second baseman Marty Perez.

With the victory, the Dodgers' fifth in a row, Los Angeles widened its National League West lead over the Braves to 1½ games.

Astros 4, Padres 1
Bob Watson's two-run single broke a sixth-inning deadlock and helped Dave Roberts and the Astros to beat San Diego. Roberts finished with a seven-hitter, the only damaging one being Dave Winfield's sixth homer of the year.

Cincy Reds to host Braves, San Diego

CINCINNATI — Two greatly improved Western Division rivals make their initial 1975 Riverfront Stadium visits when the Cincinnati Reds open a big six-game homestand on Friday.

The explosive Atlanta Braves will be in for three games beginning with an 8:05 contest on Friday. They will be followed by the surprising San Diego Padres.

In addition to Western Division baseball, fans will also be treated to College Night, Bat Day and the season's second Businessmen's Special.

College Night is set for Saturday when the Reds continue the three-game set with Atlanta at 7:00 p.m. Pre-game entertainment begins at 6:15 p.m. with Ben E. King. College students may purchase regular $3.50 reserved seats for $2.

The Reds and Braves conclude their series Sunday afternoon (May 4) on Bat Day. Each youngster, 14 and under, accompanied by a separate paying adult will receive a Louisville Slugger bat.

The hard-hitting Braves are led by last year's batting champion Ralph Garr and slugger Darrell Evans, who is among the league leaders in home runs.

The pitching staff is headed by 20-game winner Phil Niekro and Buzz Capra, last year's ERA champion.

The surprising Padres, who have been among the division leaders in the early going, will open their three-game stand with a night contest next Tuesday (May 6). The two teams will also meet in a 12:30 p.m. Businessmen's Special (May 7) and will close the homestand with an 8:05 game (May 8).

All-Star centerfielder John Grubb is the offensive hub for the Padres, who are the most improved club in the Western Division. The mound corps is bulwarked by Randy Jones, Joe McIntosh, Dan Spillner and Dave Freisleben, one of the youngest sets of starters in the National League.

Boston set for Bullets

By The Associated Press
"We can't think we're going to play 24 minutes of basketball against the Washington Bullets and win," said Boston Celtic Coach Tom Heinsohn.

"We're going to have to play a hell of a lot better than we did Sunday to beat them," said Bullets Coach K.C. Jones.

By what they say, it's hard to tell which team holds a 1-0 edge in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Division playoff finals.

"They didn't beat us," Heinsohn said. "We beat us. It isn't what they did. It's what we didn't do."

The series resumes Wednesday in Landover, Md., with the Bullets holding a slight advantage after capturing Sunday's contest.

In the Western Division finals, the Golden State Warriors travel to Chicago Wednesday.

Top pacers may frequent Scioto

If present plans materialize, one of the nations premier three year-old pacers will make his 1975 race debut at Scioto Downs after the season opens on May 16.

The highly regarded, hard-hitting son of Bret Hanover, the World Champion Alert Bret should begin his sophomore season at the Columbus harness oval, according to reports out of Pompano Beach, Florida, winter training site of the famed Castleton Farm Stable from Lexington, Kentucky.

Glen Garnsey, the talented head trainer for Castleton Farms stated, "We are not sure yet just where Alert Bret will start, it could be Scioto Downs. We will be pointing him for the $175,000 Cane Pace at Yonkers Raceway on June 28, and the Scioto Challenge Stakes comes just before on June 19."

ALERT BRET became the world champion juvenile pacer last fall after defeating his chief rival, Nero, at Lexington, Kentucky.

Garnsey minces no words when talking about Alert Bret's 1975 campaign. Although his colt is heavily staked in every major race in the nation this year, Garnsey wants to win the Little Brown Jug, the sports premier pacing classic held every year at Delaware, Ohio.

You won't find Glen Garnsey's name among the leading race winning drivers. But percentage wise, he is near perfect. In only 285 starts in 1974, Garnsey had 93 wins, 51 seconds and 38 thirds.

Garnsey has never won the Little Brown Jug. Although he has had some close finishes, Garnsey thinks 1975 is his year, and Alert Bret is the horse.

GARNSEY LIKES the under dog role Alert Bret is playing in Nero in the U. S. Trotting Association's 1975 Pre-Season Experimental Championship Ratings. Nero earned a 1975 rating mile of 1:54, while Alert Bret was assigned a rating mile of 1:54 1-5.

The Little Brown Jug officials rate Alert Bret and Nero as co-winterbook favorites to capture the legendary late September classic.

There are a lot of miles to race between May and September, and both Alert Bret and Nero are scheduled to race at Scioto Downs numerous times during the summer.

Alert Bret is eligible to the Challenge Stakes on June 19, Nero is not.

NERO IS eligible to the three year-old pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series on August 14, Alert Bret is not.

Both Alert Bret and Nero are eligible to the Scioto Downs Little Brown Jug Preview on September 9, the final test just ten days before the conveted Jug itself on September 19.

1975 figures to be an epic year for both Alert Bret and Nero, and Scioto Downs could be the focal point in the developing chapters leading to the climax of the saga at Delaware, Ohio.

Emprise license renewels rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Liquor Commission has rejected 19 Emprise-Sportservice liquor license renewals in six major Ohio sports complexes, it was learned Monday.

The rejections were based on a 1972 felony conviction of the parent company, Emprise Corp., for conspiring to conceal ownership in a Las Vegas gambling casino.

The action, taken Friday, was signed by commission Chairman John F. Owin of Alliance and Commissioner Frederick J. Krumholtz of Dayton. The third commissioner is a recent appointee and was not present when testimony was given.

Attorneys for the various Sport-service operations in Toledo, Cleveland and Cincinnati had appealed the original adverse ruling by former state Liquor Director Richard Guggenheim. The liquor concession have continued to operate while the appeal was under way and presumably will continue to operate while the commission decision is appealed to the courts.

Kenneth G. Weinberg, a Cleveland attorney, said such an appeal is a certainty.

Liquor licenses in Ohio must be renewed each year. The licenses in question involve the 1973 renewal period, the year after the Nevada felony conviction, which has been upheld upon appeal to a federal circuit court in California. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case further.

Affected are liquor concessions at Riverfront Stadium, River Downs race track and the Cincinnati Gardens, all in Cincinnati; Thistle Down race track in Cleveland, and the Cleveland and Toledo sports arenas.

According to liquor commission filings, the various Sport-service corporations all are subsidiaries of Emprise Corp., which was fined $10,000 in the Nevada conviction.

Lawrence O'Brien named NBA chief

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association has returned to the political ranks to pick a new commissioner, former Democratic National Committee Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

O'Brien, who also served as Postmaster General under President Lyndon Johnson, has been elected unanimously to replace retiring Commissioner Walter Kennedy, The Associated Press learned Monday.

The announcement of O'Brien's selection is expected to be made by the league Wednesday.

In Springfield, Mass., where he was elected president of the Basketball Hall of Fame, Kennedy refused to comment Monday night on O'Brien's appointment.

"The (NBA) selection committee told me last Friday that they would continue to screen candidates. And they meet this week, probably on Wednesday," Kennedy said.

"Until the selection committee has admitted me of any agreement for a new commissioner, I don't want to comment on speculation ... However, this isn't the first time Larry O'Brien's name has come up."

Kennedy, once mayor of Stamford, Conn., has been commissioner since 1963. In 1973, he announced he would retire when his contract expires this summer, giving the selection commission time for a two-year search for his replacement.

O'Brien, 57, is a native of Springfield, Mass., and has been active in Democratic politics and election campaigns most of his life. He directed John F. Kennedy's Senate campaigns in 1952 and 1958 and his 1960 presidential campaign, after which he became Democratic National Committee chairman.

From 1961 to 1965, he was special assistant for congressional relations to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, then served for three years as Postmaster General.

He became Democratic chairman again in 1968, serving until succeeded by Jean Westwood in 1972. It was his office at the Watergate office building in Washington that was the target of the Watergate burglars in June 1972.

Although he graduated from Northeastern Law School, he has never practiced law. But his political and legal background are believed to have been two of the reasons he was selected. The NBA faces an antitrust lawsuit by the American Basketball Association, and the NBA Players Association has a suit against the owners challenging the reserve clause.

Bombay Duck seen favorite in Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Anybody that beats this horse Saturday will win the Derby," says Ben Perkins, the trainer of Bombay Duck. "And I ain't blowin' steam."

Fourteen other 3-year-olds are expected to oppose Bombay Duck in the 101st running of the 1¼-mile, $125,000-added Kentucky Derby — and one of them is favored Foolish Pleasure, who caught the front-running Bombay Duck in the final strides to win the 1¼-mile Wood Memorial April 19 at Aqueduct.

Baseballers ready for sectionals

The Ohio spring weather is again playing havoc with area high school spring sports schedules as Washington Senior High and Miami Trace baseball teams get ready for the sectional tournaments.

Miami Trace goes against a tough Portsmouth nine Tuesday in its first sectional game. Coach Dave Pellior's Panthers split a double-header with Portsmouth earlier this season and the Trace team will be traveling south in an attempt to pick up a first round sectional victory.

Coach Rodger Mickie's Blue Lion diamond men received a bye in the first round of their sectional and they are scheduled to play the winner of the Waverly-Thornville Sheridan game at home on Monday.

Coach Mickie picks Sheridan as the team to beat in the sectional with the Generals from Thornville sporting a 13-4 season record.

The other two teams in Washington's five-team sectional are a little closer to home with South Central Ohio League members Greenfield McClain and Hillsboro in the lower bracket. If the Lions win Monday's first round contest, they will meet the winner of Greenfield-

Hillsboro game scheduled for Thursday.

The Blue Lions have been idle for over a week because of the rains, but Mickie and his Lions will have a chance to tune up Friday against Wilmington before the sectional showdown at home Monday.

Area track teams have been getting in some running time despite the wet weather. Miami Trace and Washington sent trackmen to the Unioto Relays over the weekend with the big meet scheduled for tonight on the Unioto cinders as the South Central Ohio League holds its annual meet.

WISH — The local organization of "Women In Service Helping" presented a check for $45 to Edwin Nestor (left), superintendent of city schools, and Guy Foster (next to Nestor), superintendent of county schools, to be used toward the purchase of materials for the learning disability classes. Pictured left to right, next to Foster are Lynn Shoemaker, member of WISH; Evelyn Pentzer, member of WISH; Rosemary Hollingsworth, county LD teacher; Margaret Emmelhainz, a primary LD teacher in the city and Leona Morrison, an intermediate LD teacher in the city.

Wishes do come true

Wishes do come true; especially if you have a group on your side like "WISH" (Women In Service Helping), who are dedicated to the improvement of the learning disability classes in the county schools of Fayette County and the city schools of Washington C.H.

These women give freely of their time in assisting with the classes and promote philanthropic projects which enable them to also give monetary and material gifts to be used in the classes. Last Thursday, a $45 check was presented to Guy Foster, superintendent of the Miami Trace School District, and Edwin Nestor, superintendent of the city school system, by this organization.

A felt board, on which characters can be placed to illustrate story telling, was also presented to the city learning disability class, along with the characters to illustrate three stories. The county LD class had already received its felt board.

Rep. Miller hears of gasification plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence E. Miller, R-Ohio, has been told by the Energy Research and Development Administration that recommendations for alternate coal gasification plant locations will be made by Coalcon, a private contractor, this summer.

Miller received the word from George Fumich of the ERDA.

Teller urges more atom plants

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Nuclear physicist Dr. Edward Teller, often called the father of the H-bomb, says the energy problem in the United States is "not terribly serious" but nuclear energy will have to play a role in solving it.

Teller said Monday that building more nuclear reactors is one good way to boost the nation's energy output. Nuclear reactors "are clean and safe—contrary to public opinion," he added.

The scientist, who as head of the Atomic Energy Commission's Los Alamos, N.M., laboratory helped develop the hydrogen bomb, said his statement that nuclear reactors should be built underground was prompted by popular concern.

"My opinion that nuclear reactors should be put underground is not just due to my evaluation of the safety of nuclear reactors but also my evaluation of public sentiment," he said.

"We have very safe reactors but people are so scared that if there should be a major accident...in which many people die because radioactivity was released, then I'm afraid there will be strong public sentiment to shut down all nuclear reactors," Teller said.

He said that by placing reactors 200 feet underground and aiming piping down, no one who wasn't underground at the time would be harmed by even a major accident.

Teller said that while the energy problem is uncomfortable for Americans it is a catastrophe abroad. He has proposed that America help solve the problem abroad before nations such as India, which need petroleum-based fertilizer, face starvation.

Urge inspector for Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, plans to introduce legislation Thursday to create a special "inspector general" for the Medicare program.

Such an office was approved by the Senate in 1972 as part of a broader bill on Social Security revisions, but it was dropped in the subsequent House-Senate conference on conflicting versions of the measure.

Vanik's office said Monday that he has been discussing the idea with top Social Security Administration officials who also like the idea.

The inspector would be independent but within the Health, Education and Welfare Department structure, aides said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC tonight is airing "Returning Home," a TV remake of "The Best Years of Our Lives," the fine 1946 movie about the return of three servicemen to civilian life after World War II.

The show definitely is worth watching, if only for the superb, natural performance of an amateur actor, James R. Miller, whom ABC says is a former Marine who lost both arms in combat in Vietnam.

He plays a Navy enlisted man whose arms were shot off in a Pacific sea battle. And he's just as brilliant in the role as its original occupant, Harold Russell, a double amputee from World War II.

Tom Selleck and Dabney Coleman also are excellent as they recreate the roles of a returning Air Corps bombardier and an infantry sergeant, parts originally played by Dana Andrews and the late Frederic March.

Fans of the movie no doubt will have a field day picking out the major and minor changes made for ABC's show, a series pilot.

Two not-in-the-original biggies I spotted, both involving the bombardier, were:

—The addition of a black former Air Corps pilot as a friend who, as a civilian, encounters an ugly instance of smalltown bigotry.

—The transformation of the bombardier's blatantly unfaithful, partying wife to a possibly unfaithful wife who now is a hard-working, ambitious secretary and spends much time at work with her boss.

Other alterations have been made, but the 90-minute program generally follows the familiar lines of the movie as it traces their return from the war to the small town in which they all live.

They meet on a homeward-bound flight, then share a cab from the airport to their respective homes, passing a saloon owned by the sailor's uncle. They promise to meet here sometime and eventually do.

The sailor, whose "hands" now are artificial claws, worries whether his fiancée still loves him, despite his condition. She does, but both her parents and his are visibly uneasy because of his artificial arms.

The infantry sergeant, who has a wife and children, is perhaps the best off, being re-hired by the bank for which he worked before the war and made a vice-president at $12,000 annually.

The bombardier, who had no training or education that would prepare him for civilian life, flounders around until forced to take a $32-a-week clerk's job at a drugstore in which he worked before the war.

That's the basic situation for the three returning veterans, and viewers who weren't fortunate to see the original movie should watch this one to see how things turn out.

The program lacks the fine character shadings of "The Best Years of Our Lives" — though not because of its actors — and its built-in commercial breaks occasionally make it seem abbreviated to a fault.

Swine waste treatment eyed

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Swine wastes can be treated automatically with a minimum of odor nuisance and without water pollution, Professor E. Paul Taiganides of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center reported recently.

His conclusion presented to a livestock waste symposium was based on a three-year research study.

Under the project which experimented with 500 pigs, manure is flushed from the confinement unit and the flushed wastewater is pumped over a screen which separates solids from liquids. The solids are aerobically digested, treated and stored before final disposal on agriculturally productive land. Liquids are eventually sent into a settling tank.

Beach erosion projects readied

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said Monday that beach erosion control projects at Edgewater and White City Parks in the City of Cleveland, Ohio, will be recommended for re-authorization.

The two projects were considered to be dropped since last October when no local interest was shown in getting the projects under way since they were authorized in 1954.

However, the State of Ohio and City of Cleveland recently indicated interest in project completion.

Set open house

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Cedar Bog State Memorial, site of a bog created as the glaciers of the Ice Age retreated over southern Champaign County leaving behind limestone chips, will hold a special open house May 3.

Media blasted in Moeller arson case

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An attorney for Charles D. Moeller, one of 10 men charged in the bombing of a manufacturing plant in Connecticut, lashed out at the FBI and news media Monday for prejudicing the charges.

Attorney Dave Myers of Celina added that Moeller's trial will prove his innocence.

"Even before Charles Moeller's lawyer was privy to the indictment and its charges, FBI Director Clarence Kelly's selfaggrandizing words of prejudice and conclusion of crimes of Mr. Moeller were flooding the news media and air waves," said Myers.

Moeller of Cridersville, president of Ohio Decorative Products of Spencerville, the parent firm of Sponge Rubber Products which was destroyed by fire, was indicted by a federal grand jury in New Haven, Conn., on six arson-related counts as a result of alleged payment of $35,000 in company funds to David L. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn.

"Such publicity pronouncements are especially reprehensible when they further appear calculated to prejudice those who must ultimately decide the issues," Myers said.

"Mr. Moeller is entitled to the presumption of innocence of crimes charged and all governmental officials are sworn to uphold this cherished precept of law.

"The trial of this case in its proper form-the courtroom shall establish Mr. Moeller's innocence."

appear that declarer cannot escape going down one. But if South plays his cards as he should, he makes the contract. Furthermore, the right line of play does not depend on peeking at the East-West cards; normal play will do the job. When dummy comes down, South sees that the outcome depends on either losing no trump trick or losing no club trick. Declarer has no control over the trump division, but has some control over the club situation. In an effort to avoid the club finesse — which might lose — South wins the spade lead and plays the ace of diamonds, followed by the A-K of hearts. Upon learning that East has a trump trick, declarer cashes the king of diamonds, discarding a spade, and ruffs the jack of diamonds in dummy. The stage is now set for the winning play. Ignoring the club finesse, South leads a spade from dummy! West takes his two spade tricks but must then play a club from his king or yield a ruff and discard. Either way, South comes home free. His only losers are two spades and a trump. The club finesse, despite its magnetic attraction, never enters the picture at all.

ROUGH RIDERS 4-H
Members of the Rough Riders 4-H Club talked about a judging contest to be held May 10 at the Chillicothe Fairgrounds, Ross County. Slides were shown on how to groom and how to keep your horse clean. Refreshments were served by Tammy Arnold and Kelly Lane, and the next meeting, April 28, will be held at Braden's woods.

In Focus by Charlie Pensyl

Ever notice how many people go through life seeking that magic formula, that secret that's known only to the initiates, which will make them an artist in their field. It's a sad story in a way; there just ain't no magic formula. Sorry about that. Oh, sure there's a formula, but it's just not magic.

For example, a few years ago I went to school at a top photo lab in New York City. This lab is the Mecca for photographic art. This outfit does the lab work for the top photographers and slick magazines in the country. Quality, man, quality! Here I would find the magic formula.

The first area of study was film developing. These guys used the same stainless steel tanks and reels that I use. Chemicals? X-22, Rodinal, Kodak Rapid Liquid Fix, same as I use. Technique? Same as mine. So we moved on to the printing area — here would be the magic. Same make enlarger that's in my lab. And about the same mix of Kodak and Agfa paper that I have on my shelf. Soup? Dektol. Technique? Ah, here was the artistry! These boys knew how to regulate the light coming from the enlarger in such a way they got just the effect they wanted. And in the trays those pix were worked over and made into something really great. It boils down to simple know-how.

In your own photography there is that know-how factor in every step from selection of the shutter speed and aperture to selection of the lab to do the finishing of the prints or slides. You wouldn't believe how many poor lensmen aren't aware of the fact that their lousy pix could be improved tremendously if they would let a quality lab do their processing. Cheap processing is a sure road to bad pictures, regardless of the camera, lens, film, or photographic technique. I think that's why more and more lensmen are bringing their films to us for the very best in processing. Why not give our labs a try?

Opening lead - king of spades.

Many sound contracts fail because of an unlucky division of the cards, but some of them can be salvaged by cautious play.

Consider this deal where, if you look at all four hands, it would seem that South must go down one. The hearts break 3-1, so that a trump trick must be lost, and the club finesse, if and when attempted, fails. These losers, on top of the two inevitable spade losers, make it

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

'Iron Deficiency' Fact or Fiction?

We are constantly being bombarded with warnings about iron deficiency. They have finally gotten to me and now I want to be sure that I am getting enough iron.

Mrs. L.A., III.

Dear Mrs. A.: Manufacturers of expensive dietary food supplements constantly warn the public, especially women, about "iron deficiency."

Such advertising promotions tend to induce in many women unnecessary anxiety.

The suggestion is sometimes made that the loss of blood by menstruation may be responsible for "iron deficiency."

The fear and anxiety that is produced is unjustified. A well-balanced diet contains the vitamins and minerals (including iron) necessary for normal function.

There is, indeed, a special type of anemia known as "iron deficiency anemia." This cannot be recognized by the paleness of the skin. The only way to determine this kind of anemia is by specialized microscopic studies of the blood. The size shape and number of red blood cells indicate to the physician the possibility of iron deficiency anemia.

When this is present, it can be readily rectified by adding iron supplements.

Before embarking on a program of buying expensive supplements, discuss the matter with your doctor. If no anemia exists, save your money and spend it on good nutritious food.

My nose is abnormally dry. It is constantly "crusty." It's most annoying. Is there any way to help?

Miss G.G., Nev.

Dear Miss G.: Many people, especially in the winter, complain of this problem. Steam-heated rooms, chronic sinus infection and allergy may be responsible.

If infection exists, it must be halted.

Topical application of ordinary baby mineral oil, followed by steam inhalation, can reduce abnormal dryness and crusting.

There is a special condition known as "ozena," which can be diagnosed by your doctor. I doubt if you have this relatively rare condition, but it should not be ruled out.

Special types of nasal irrigation with ordinary salt water or Dobells solution, used under a doctor's direction, can be very effective.
